

Professor David Levine Elon University School of Law

David S. Levine is an Assistant Professor of Law at Elon University School of Law and an affiliate scholar at the Center for Internet and Society at Stanford Law School (CIS). His scholarship focuses on the operation of intellectual property law at the intersection of technology and public life and intellectual property law's impact on public and private transparency and accountability.

Levine founded and hosts Hearsay Culture on KZSU-FM (Stanford University), a technology and intellectual property law radio show and podcast that was chosen as one of the top five podcasts in the American Bar Association's Blawg 100 of 2008.

Prior to becoming a law professor, Levine was a resident fellow at CIS. He also practiced intellectual property, entertainment, labor/employment and commercial litigation as an associate in the Manhattan offices of Pryor Cashman LLP and Windels Marx Lane & Mittendorf LLP and as Assistant Corporation Counsel for the City of New York. He holds a bachelor of science degree in industrial and labor relations from Cornell University and a juris doctor degree from Case Western Reserve University School of Law.