

Terri Mottershead is the national Director of Professional Development with DLA Piper LLP (US) and is based in San Francisco, California, USA. Her role at DLA Piper includes leading the US Professional Development department and supporting the talent management initiatives for more than 1,500 attorneys in the firm's 30 US offices. Terri brings to the position over 25 years of experience in international law practice, legal associations (law firm associations, academic institutions and Law Societies/Bar Associations), consulting, legal education and training.

Terri has designed and delivered leadership and management training courses and programs for partners and associates in international and local law firms for the last 10 years. This training has included courses in strategic/planning, marketing/business development, client relationship management and performance management as well as multiple day and week long programs on law firm management. The courses and programs have been delivered in the US and internationally.