

Christian Munoz
Manager, Regulatory and Compliance
Oportun

Christian Munoz is a member of the Regulatory Legal team at Oportun, where he focuses on financial services regulation. His primary responsibilities include serving as the primary point-of-contact for state regulators, overseeing all regulatory examinations audits, advising on regulatory requirements applicable to financial products and services, and assisting Oportun's government relations group in interpreting proposed legislation. Prior to working at Oportun, Christian worked at other fintech companies such as Venmo, PayPal, and Ripple. He received his law degree from the Santa Clara University School of Law.

Christian is a certified anti-money laundering specialist, an MBA candidate at the Santa Clara University Leavey School of Business, and volunteers with the Bar Association of San Francisco's Legal Advice and Referral Clinics.
